BILLARD'S TOO MANY BRIDES,

A Well-Known Brooklyn Architect Held for Bigamy.

Says He Married Again After Taking Legal Advice.

A ruddy-faced young man with mild bine res and a curling blonds mustache peered anxiously through the iron grating of the risoners' pen in the Adams Street Police Mrs. Langtry Better, but Talking of Court, Brooklyn, this forenoon.

He was Herbert W. Billard, of the archiects' firm of Billard & Crowell, 99 Broadway, Brooklyn. Detective Sergeant Roche. of the Central Office, arrested Billard at 9 o'clock last night at his home, 229 Lee avenue, on a warrant issued by Justice Walsh charging him with bigamy.

The complaint was made by Mrs. Maggie Billard, of Woodbridge, N. J., to whom the prisoner was married in the East ThirtySeventh Street Methodist Episcopal Church in this city on March 16, 1886, by the liev.

E. A. Blake, the pastor.
She stated to Chief Campbell that they first went to live in Bond street, Brooklyn, and after that moved to Stamford, Conn.,
where Billard deserted her and a threeyear-old child in 1884.
The infant died shortly after its father's desertion, and Mrs. Billiard moved to Woodbridge, N. J., where she has since continued to reside. She has not seen him since.
About a week ago she learned that her recreant husband had taken another wife.
Then followed her complaint and Billard's agrees.

Then followed her complaint and Billard's arrest.

Ins. D. Hunt, the daughter of well-to-do barents of unquestioned respectability, became the second Mrs. Billard on Dec. 27 last. They were married by the Rev. J. J. White at the parsonage of the South Fourth street Methodist church.

When Billard was arrested by Detective Roche he was bliesfully enjoying the serange domesticity of his hearthstone No. 2. He lives in a prettily furnished flat at 220 Lee avenue, but there is just one bit of incongruity about it. A little tot of only two months was cooling and gurgling gleefully in a cot all fluffy with isce and soft stupy properties.

fully in a cot all fluffy with lace and soft tiny pillows.

It opened its big shiny eyes and when the detective unbuttoned his cost and showed his shield, the pudry, dimpled fingers stretched out to grab it.

Mrs. Billard was dumbstruck at the sudden turn in the happiness of her domesticity and was thoroughly prostrated.

An Evenno Would reporter interviewed Billard in his cell to-day.

"How did you happen to make this mistake, Billard?" he was asked.

"I did it under advice of a lawyer," he replied.

plied.

"What do you mean?"

"I went to see a lawyer last Winter before I contracted my second marriage. He told me I could get married and then I made him put it in writing."

"Who was the lawyer?"

"His name is Max Brill."

After a little marleying the reporter got Lawyer Brill's letter and the opinion as to Billard's right to remarry. Here is a copy:

BROOKLITK, Dec. 24, 1889.

BROOKLYR, Dec. at.

Merbert W. Billard.

Dran Sir. I beg to say that in case desertion occurs and deserted party has heard nothing of deserted or a term of five years a new marriage entered upon by deserted party is not bigamy and the lasue of such marriage is legitimate.

MAX BRILL.

When asked how he came to accept such advice Billard said he knew nothing of divorce laws and took the lawyer's word for it that everything was all right,
"But you deserted your wife."
"Oh! I guess not. I guess not. She deserted me at Stamford, and I've got a hundred witnesses to prove it," he said rather scornfully.
"How about that three-months-old child, Billard?"

Billard?"
"Come now, let that matter alone. Don't say anything about that. It isn't three months old anyhow. Its only two months."
When his case was called by Justice Waish this morning Billard said he was not ready for trial, and was held for examination.

The prosecution has already shown by several witnesses that Spence shot his wife twice, once in the head and once in the neck, apparently without any immediate shortly after midnight. He also was held for trial.

The first witness called this morning was Dr. William A. Conway, of the Corener's office. He testified that he had made an autopsy on the body of the murdered woman, and on cross-examination told Lawyer Heinzelman that there were powder marks on the side of her head near the ear.

The bullet hole was in the centre of the powder stain, and it showed that the weapon must have been held very close to her head when it was discharged, probably within a foot. Examination of the stomach had shown that she had been drinking a good dea.

Judge Cowing Finally Releases Tammany's Commissioner Put at Keenan and Sayles.

Judge Cowing handed down his decision Commissioner Albert Gallup, the only this morning in the motion made yesterday Tammany Hall member of the Park Board. 1884 boodle gang.

The decision is in favor of the boodlers,

The decision is in favor of the boodiers, and the opinion is as follows:

Court or Gerral Sensions.—The People agrish John Kernan: Twenty-one indictments for bribery.

A motion having this day been made in open court by counsel representing the defendant, John Kesnan, in the above mentioned indictment for an order fixing a day for trai thereof as to him or dismissing the same, the District Attorney personally appeared, and in answer to said motion informed the Court that he could not and never intended to move for the trial of said defendant upon said indictments for the reason (among others) that he is not possessed of sufficient evidence to justify him in putting the defendant upon trial or to justify asking for a conviction in case he should do so, and that he would not, therefore, oppose the motion to dismiss the said indictments.

[See District-Attorney's statement filed herewith.]

The motion to dismiss the said indictments as to Defendant John Reeman, is granted.

But to Remain the same time made by counsel representing Defendant in the process of the Department may have had something to do with the readiness with which a Republican and a County Democracy Commissioner voted for a Tanumany President, it is suggested while others see in it the reappointment by Mayor Grant of the Republican Commissioner Borden whose torm has expired.

President Gallup was appointed by Mayor Grant last vear. He is a member of the law farm of Gallup & Hurry, a prominent club man, Capt, of the First Riysade Signal Corns and a member of the Tanumany Hall Committee from the Beventeenth Assembly District.

The Board decided to dispense with the crime of the partonage of the Board present.

The Commissioners had gone to work to corrageously to solve the difficult problems under the insufficient provisions of the Laws of 1875, when they were confronted with this apparently insuperable obstacle, the 1881 amendment, which excepted Forty-second street from the thoroughfares which could be used for rapid transit.

John M. Bowers, of the law firm of Platt & Bowers, is counsel for the Commission, but owing to his absence in Cincinnati Lawyer James C. Carter, one of the most feminent members of the bar in this city, was consulted as to the effect of this act.

Mr. Carter to-day gave it as his opinion that the act of 1881 is not now in force; that it was repealed by section 1,040 of the Commission and the court and

The Columbia, the Transatiantic grey-hound of the Hamburg-American line, reached here to-day from Southampton. The Columbia has climbed a notch higher in the list of ocean racers, for she has excelled her provious handsome record of six days, eighteen hours and twenty minutes. This time the trip from Southampton was made in six days sixteen hours, and when it is taken into consideration that Southampton is a day longer sail than from Queens town, the time is lowered to about six days. The Columbia, like other incoming ocean steamers, passed plenty of field ice. The handsome craft had a large passenger list. Among those on board were Consul F. C. Sarg, Elbridge T. Gerry and wife and
